About the Seminar

Information explosion describes the rapidly increasing amount of published information and the effects of this abundance of data. With the free availability of information capable of being used, misused and shared at electronic speed, the challenges of society in managing the impact of information has increased greatly. Information explosion is in a way a continuous circle, the more information there is, the more people become productive and this further creates a spurt in information to be dispersed and made available. Technologies bring about diverse changes in society, influence the mind and cultural behaviours too. In today's digital world, data has been identified as new kind of economic asset. In this scenario, there is a need for educators to reorient their methodologies with a view to incorporate digital teaching aids. Academics, teachers and libraries will hence need to work out strategies to enhance digitally literate composing and thinking. Hence the need to deliberate on issues of quality assurance and management of information and knowledge is of pressing necessity.
